

Sponsorship of Foreign Nationals for U. S. Lawful Permanent Residence

This policy is intended to provide guidance to applicants for employment, employees and hiring departments regarding the application for and sponsorship of foreign nationals by Temple University.

Under Federal law, there are strict requirements applicable to Permanent Residence status for foreign nationals who intend to reside in the United States permanently. There are several bases on which a foreign national may apply for Lawful Permanent Residence status. The Human Resources Department is responsible for processing all applications for Lawful Permanent Residence based on employment and can only do so when it is appropriate for the University to function as the sponsor/petitioner.

The process is lengthy and complex, potentially involving various government agencies. Sponsorship includes filing ETA Form 9089, Application for Permanent Employment Certification, with the Department of Labor, and Form I-140, Immigrant Petition for Alien Worker, with the Department of Homeland Security, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS), and fulfilling the requirements as mandated by Department of Labor and immigration regulations in employment-based cases. Questions concerning the application of the policy to a particular employee should be directed to the Associate Vice President of Human Resources Operations or his/her designee.

Who Will Temple Sponsor?

Temple University will typically sponsor foreign nationals who are full-time, regular employees in tenure and tenure-track academic job classifications provided the department chairperson agrees to support the application. These positions include professor, associate professor and assistant professor. A department may request an exception if unique circumstances justify the sponsorship of a particular employee as outlined below.

Temple University normally does not sponsor foreign employees in the following position classifications:

- non-tenure track academic positions such as lecturers, research professors and/or clinician educators;
- post-doctoral fellow/researcher positions; and
- non-academic staff positions such as programmer-analyst, technical support specialist, software developer or laboratory technician are also not normally sponsored for permanent residence.

A department may request an exception if unique circumstances justify the sponsorship immigration attorneys for the convenience of Temple University students and staff.

Designated Attorneys and the Filing of Required Immigration Forms

Any foreign national sponsored by Temple University for Lawful Permanent Residence must use the services of a designated immigration attorney to prepare and file the applicable immigration forms with the Department of Labor and USCIS. The Human Resources Department maintains a list of such designated immigration attorneys. Although only designated immigration attorneys may prepare and file the legal documents necessary for sponsorship by the University, the foreign national may retain his/her own counsel to consult with the attorney retained by the University at his or her own cost.

Although Temple University cannot guarantee Permanent Residency will be granted in each of the applications it supports, it is committed to assisting the designated attorney in filing the necessary paperwork.

The foreign national must work with the appropriate designated immigration attorney and instruct him/her to send a letter to the Human Resources Department on the firm's stationery indicating they are representing the foreign national for permanent residency, the employment-based preference category they are applying under, and any requests for specific information they will need.

The Human Resources Department will share a copy of the "official" Position Description or appointment letter with the designated attorney of record. All recruitment activities must be based on contents in the "official" position description or appointment letter.

The designated attorney must coordinate any required advertising/recruitment efforts with the Human Resources Department. The Human Resources Department will circulate appropriate resumes for the position to the Department Chair for faculty and post-doctoral fellow/researcher positions, and the cognizant Vice President or Provost for non-academic positions. The Department Chair or other appropriate hiring authority will be responsible for documenting the reason(s) for rejecting any applicants and summarizing in writing the entire recruitment process.

The ETA form 9089 prepared by the designated attorney filing the application must be co-signed by the both the Human Resources Department and the foreign national as well as the Department Chair (for tenured and/or tenure track faculty positions), the Department Chair and the Dean (for lecturer/non-tenure track positions and post-doctoral fellow/researcher positions), the cognizant Vice President or Provost (for non-academic staff positions).

Payment of Costs and Fees Associated with Sponsorship

For planning purposes, foreign nationals seeking sponsorship with Temple University should be aware that Temple University will only pay the fees or costs the Department of Labor requires sponsoring employers to pay at the time the application is submitted. Any and all other fees and costs (attorney's fees, U.S. CIS filing fees, including but not limited to fees for Form I-140, Immigrant Petition for Alien Worker and Form I-485, Application to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status, medical examinations, photographs, etc.) are the responsibility of the foreign faculty member applying for permanent resident status. The Human Resources Department will notify the foreign national which fees and costs will be borne by Temple University at the time the application is being prepared.
