

Faculty Fellowships
Application Guidelines
Center for the Humanities at Temple

Application Deadline is November 2, 2009

Faculty Fellowships provide a one-course teaching reduction in 2010-11 and a $1000 research budget. Four fellowships will be awarded, and one fellowship is designated for junior faculty. Fellows participate monthly in the Fellows Seminar, where they present part of their manuscript for discussion and critique. Fellows also make a public presentation of their research and contribute to the activities of the Center during the year.

Eligibility

All fulltime Temple faculty working on research projects in the humanities or humanistic social sciences are eligible to apply, except recipients of CHAT Faculty Fellowships during the past four years. Previous applicants are welcome to reapply. Simultaneous application to external fellowships is encouraged.

Application

Each candidate submits:

- Cover letter identifying the fellowship you are applying for
- Statement of proposed research (4-8 pages double-spaced) describing the broader research project, the research planned for the fellowship year, the work's interdisciplinary perspective, the intended venue for publication, and a timeline for completion of the project.
- Current C.V. (no more than five pages).
- Letter from your department chair assessing your proposal and indicating that the course release will not adversely affect the department's undergraduate offerings.

Please forward all materials to the address below. Electronic submission is preferred. Please contact Peter Logan with any questions, at peter.logan@temple.edu or 215/204-8567.
