

Jennifer K. Ibrahim

Assistant Professor of Health Policy

Associate Director of the Robert Wood Johnson National Program Office on Public Health Law Research

Jennifer Ibrahim is an Assistant Professor of Health Policy in the Department of Public Health at Temple University. She earned a BS from Boston College in 1997, an MPH from the University of Massachusetts Amherst in 1999 and a PhD in Health Services and Policy Analysis and an MA in Political Science from the University of California, Berkeley in 2002. Prior to joining the faculty at Temple University, she was an American Legacy Foundation postdoctoral fellow at the University of California, San Francisco. Dr. Ibrahim's area of research interest is in health policy development and implementation, particularly at the state and local level. Dr. Ibrahim's research funding focuses on means to address tobacco use through policy modifications and integration within existing public health systems. In addition, Dr. Ibrahim is also beginning new projects exploring the infrastructure, communications and policies regarding domestic food safety.