II. Education:

B.A. University of Pennsylvania, Psychology, 1974
Ph.D. University of Pennsylvania, Experimental and Clinical Psychology, 1979
    APA-approved Clinical Internship, Hospital of the Univ. of Pennsylvania, 1979

Academic Honors and Awards

B.A. Summa Cum Laude
Phi Beta Kappa
National Science Foundation Predoctoral Fellowship, 1974-1977
National Institute of Mental Health Predoctoral Fellowship, 1977-1979
University of Pennsylvania Dissertation Year Fellowship, 1977-1978
NIMH Psychopathology and Clinical Biology Review Panel, 1982-1986
* 1984 American Psychological Association's Young Psychologist's Award
Northwestern University Faculty Honor Roll for Distinguished Teaching, 1982-1989
* Northwestern University College of Arts & Sciences Great Teacher Award, 1988.
Member of DSM IV Work Group on GAD and Mixed Anxiety-Depression, 1988-1993
1996 Finalist, NARSAD Established Investigator Award.
1996 Keynote Speaker at Australian Association for the Advancement of Behavior Therapy
1996 Elected Fellow of Division 12 of American Psychological Association
1997 Elected Fellow of American Psychological Society
1998 Elected Fellow of Division 3 of American Psychological Association
2001 Appointed to NIMH Workgroup on Neural and Behavioral Substrates of Mood
    Regulation, NIMH Strategic Initiative on Mood Disorders
* 2001 Paul W. Eberman Faculty Research Award, Temple University
* 2002 American Psychological Association Master Lecturer in Psychopathology Award
2002 Keynote Speaker at British Association of Behavioural and Cognitive Psychology
* 2002 Finalist for Grawemeyer Award for Best Theoretical Idea in Psychology
* 2003 APA Division 12 (Clinical Psych.) Distinguished Scientific Contribution Award
* 2003 Society for a Science of Clinical Psychology Distinguished Scientist Award
* 2004 Named the Joseph Wolpe Distinguished Faculty Fellow in Psychology
2004-2007 Named to Temple University Million Dollar Research Awards Club

Professional Associations

American Psychological Association, Division 3, 8, and 12; Fellow of Divisions 3 and 12
American Psychological Society, Fellow
Eastern and Midwestern Psychological Associations
Association for Behavioral and Cognitive Therapies
American Psychopathological Association
Society for Research in Psychopathology
Psychonomic Society
Society of Experimental Social Psychology
Society of Personality and Social Psychology
International Society for Bipolar Disorders

III. Employment:

Academic/Research Positions

*1989-present Professor of Psychology, Temple University
2004 – present Joseph Wolpe Distinguished Faculty Fellow in Psychology
2007 – present Director of Clinical Training, Psychology
1990-1997 Adjunct Research Professor in Psychiatry, MCP Hahnemann University
1990-1997 Senior Research Scientist, Dave Garroway Laboratory for the Study of Depression, Institute of Pennsylvania Hospital
1986-1989 Professor of Psychology, Northwestern University
1983-1986 Associate Professor of Psychology, Northwestern University
1979-1983 Assistant Professor of Psychology, Northwestern University
1978-1979 Research Associate. To Professor Martin E. P. Seligman, University of Pennsylvania
1977-1979 Predoctoral Fellowship Trainee. National Institute of Mental Health, Department of Psychology, University of Pennsylvania
1977-1978 Dissertation Year Fellow. Department of Psychology, University of Pennsylvania
1974-1977 Predoctoral Fellowship Trainee. National Science Foundation, Department of Psychology, University of Pennsylvania
1973-1974 Research Assistant. To Professor Philip N. Hineline, Temple University

Clinical Positions

- 1978-1979      Clinical Internship. Psychiatric outpatient service.
Department of Psychiatry, University of Pennsylvania.
Directors: Drs. Henry Bachrach and Philip Mechanick.
- 1974            Clinical Externship. Philadelphia General Hospital and Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania. Supervisor: Dr. Maria Kovacs.

IV. Primary Areas of Research Interest:

A. Cognitive and developmental processes in emotional disorders

1. Cognitive styles (attributional styles, inference styles, perceptions of control, self and future schemata) as vulnerability factors in depression. Use of longitudinal, prospective designs to test cognitive vulnerability-stress models of depression onset and course. Psychological high-risk research in affective disorders.
2. Development of methods and empirical research for identifying a theory-based, cognitive etiological subtype of depression. Heterogeneity of depressive disorders with regard to cognitive processes.
3. Role of cognitive styles, inferences and life events in bipolar spectrum disorders (Bipolar I and II, Cyclothymia, Hypomania).
4. Causal inference processes (judgment of contingency, attributions) in depressed and nondepressed people.
5. Cognitive distortions and biases of information processing (information use; causal, personal, and social inference; attention; selective and constructive memory) in depression and nondepression. Realism vs. distortion in depressive and nondepressive inference.
6. Interpersonal perceptions and processes in depression and nondepression and their role in maintaining depressive affect and behavior. Integration of cognitive and interpersonal theories of depression.
7. Relationship between anxiety and depression. The role of cognitive processes in anxiety/depression comorbidity and differentiation.
8. Social support, hopelessness, and depression. Mechanisms by which social support decreases risk for depression.
9. Self-focusing and ruminative coping styles as risk factors for depression.
10. Development of negative cognitive styles (inferential styles, dysfunctional attitudes). Familial and environmental antecedents to the development of negative cognitive styles (e.g., parental psychopathology, parenting behaviors, inferential feedback, life events, abuse experiences).

11. Developmental mechanisms involved in the surge in adolescent depression and emergence of gender differences in depression in adolescence.
12. Neural and motivational substrates of cognitive and psychosocial vulnerability to depression and bipolar disorders

B. Social cognition

1. Causal inference and automaticity of inference processes
2. Schematic bases of information processing
3. Self-concept and affect
4. Social comparison
5. Psychology of control

C. Inference in diagnostic and therapy decisions.

D. Covariation assessment in humans and animals.

E. Animal models of psychopathology

1. Interaction between Pavlovian and instrumental conditioning.
2. Learned helplessness and effects of controllability and predictability.

VIII. Teaching

I am able to teach undergraduate and/or graduate courses in the following areas:

Abnormal Psychology, Psychopathology, Clinical, Personality, or Social Research Methods, Personality, Social Cognition, Social Psychology, Psychology of Control, Social Cognition and Psychopathology, Emotion, Affective Disorders, Cognitive and Behavior Therapy, Personality Assessment and Structured Interviewing, Conditioning and Learning, Introductory Psychology.

Courses Taught at Northwestern

Undergraduate

1. Psychopathology. (Psychology C-03). Taught regularly. Basic undergraduate psychopathology course. The course focuses on encouraging students to think about psychopathology scientifically. In addition to discussing theory and research, descriptive psychiatry was given an important role. Lecture format with discussion sections.
2. Introduction to Psychology. (Psychology A-10). The course focuses on teaching students to think about psychological issues. In particular, a scientific approach is stressed. Lecture format with discussion sections.
3. Special Problems. The Psychology of Control: Psychological and Physical Consequences. (Psychology C-14). The course focuses on research and theory on the psychological concept of control and the consequences resulting from its presence, absence, or loss. Lecture and seminar format.

Graduate

4. Behavior Pathology. (Psychology D-21). Taught regularly. Two-quarter course. An in-depth introduction to research and theory in psychopathology for graduate students. Emphasis is given to assessment and etiology issues, rather than treatment issues. Lecture and seminar format.
5. Clinical Research Methods. (Psychology D-34). Taught regularly. A graduate course on clinical research methods. Emphasis is given to conceptual issues in research on psychopathology and psychotherapy. Lecture and seminar format.
6. Depression Research Seminar. (Psychology E-61). Taught regularly. An in-depth study of theory, issues, and research in the psychopathology of depression. Seminar format.
7. Special Topics in Personality and Abnormal Psychology. (Psychology D-93). The course focuses on an in-depth discussion of theory and research on the emotional

- disorders from a behavioral and cognitive perspective. Emphasis is placed on integrating findings from the experimental laboratory and the clinic. Seminar format.
8. Clinical Research Practicum. (Psychology D-11). Organized regularly. An introduction to the research of the clinical faculty and upper-level graduate students for first-year clinical graduate students.
  9. Group Supervision. (Psychology D-13). Team taught regularly. Supervision of advanced clinical graduate students' therapy cases.
  10. Graduate Proseminar: Social, Personality and Clinical Psychology. (Psychology D-01). Team taught regularly. Issues in social, personality and clinical psychology for first-year psychology graduate students.

Courses Taught at Temple

Undergraduate

1. Introduction to Psychology. (Psychology 50). Taught the clinical psychology section of a team-taught course. Topics covered include health psychology, psychopathology, and therapy. Lecture format with discussion sections.

Graduate

1. Depression Research Seminar. Taught regularly every semester. An in-depth study of theory, issues, and research in the psychopathology of mood disorders. Seminar format.
2. Psychopathology. (Psychology 851; taught regularly). An in-depth introduction to research and theory in psychopathology for Clinical psychology graduate students. Emphasis is given to assessment and etiology issues, rather than treatment issues. Lecture and seminar format.
3. Special Topics in Clinical Psychology: Mood Disorders. (Psychology 760; taught 6 times). The course focuses on an in-depth discussion of concepts, theory, research, and methods in mood disorders from multiple theoretical and research perspectives. Emphasis is placed on issues of psychopathology and etiology rather than treatment. Seminar format.
4. Special Topics in Clinical Psychology: Structured Psychiatric Diagnostic Interviewing. (Psychology 763). The course provides in-depth training for graduate students in psychiatric diagnostic interviewing as well as other forms of structured research interviewing (e.g., life stress interviewing). Concepts of descriptive psychopathology, psychiatric diagnosis and interviewing techniques are emphasized. Lecture format combined with hands-on experiential practice by students.
5. Special Topics in Clinical Psychology: Developmental Antecedents of Internalizing Disorders. (Psychology 761). The course focuses on an in-depth discussion of concepts, theory, research, and methods in understanding some of the developmental mechanisms and experiences that may contribute risk to mood, anxiety, and eating disorders. Seminar format.
