Instructions for online Student Feedback Forms (e-SFF)

In-class Administration

Online Student Feedback Forms can be completed in class to help increase response rates. Instructors and students can conveniently access e-SFFs using a browser on a computer, smartphone or mobile device. Instructions about administering e-SFF in class are listed below:

- Go to <http://esff.temple.edu> to confirm the accuracy of your course information and to complete the e-SFF Instructor Form for each of your courses. There are only two items to complete (one of the two questions is designated for an open-ended response).
- Explain to your students that they will receive a university email communication and reminders from Student Feedback Forms, and encourage your students to respond to the online SFF.
- Be sure to share with your students the importance of providing course and instructor feedback, and discuss how you use the information.
- Give students at least 10-15 minutes of class time to complete their e-SFFs. Schedule and announce the date in advance. Remind students to bring their smartphone, tablet or other mobile device to class on that date.

On the Announced Date:

- Write the e-SFF link on the board (<http://esff.temple.edu>). Ask students to go to that link (or access via TUportal) to fill out feedback. Then leave the room while the administration of the online e-SFFs is taking place. You may also ask a student volunteer to read the instructions (on the next page) to your students.
- After the in-class administration date, please remind students who did not finish filling out their feedback form, or students who were not in class, to complete the e-SFF for your class.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER

Instructions for Online Student Feedback Forms (e-SFF)

In-class Administration

Read aloud the following:

1. Our instructor set aside class time today to complete our online Student Feedback Form (e-SFF).
2. Even though the forms are available to you online at any time during the administration period, our instructor decided to set aside class time to ensure that we get a high response rate, especially at this busy time of the semester. The fact that our instructor is willing to use valuable class time to collect feedback shows you how important this process is.

The feedback that you provide is essential to improving the classroom experience and is also important in making decisions about how courses are taught at Temple University.

3. Your responses will be treated seriously and confidentially. Our instructor will not receive feedback until after all grades have been submitted for the semester and no identifying information is associated with responses in any reports to our instructor.
4. If you complete all your e-SFFs, you will have access to SFF Data for Students next semester. SFF Data for Students is a resource tool for students to access selected course and instructor feedback from prior semesters.
5. Please take out your mobile device. If you don't have a mobile device with you, remember to complete your e-SFF as soon as possible.
6. Log-in directly to <http://esff.temple.edu> and complete your feedback for this course. You can also find a link to the e-SFF website through the Student Feedback Forms channel in TUportal. Click on your Student Tools tab to find the SFF channel. Click on this course to navigate to the e-SFF website.
7. Thank you for taking the time to provide your course feedback.
