PRESIDENT’S REPORT – NEIL D. THEOBALD

Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I would like to spend a few minutes talking about Temple’s continuing commitment to the citizens of North Philadelphia. Temple accomplishes much, but our story is not always well told.

There are many key ways that Temple benefits its neighbors. We meet the healthcare needs of low-income Philadelphians by serving as an indispensable provider for healthcare.

Philadelphia is the only major city in America without a public hospital. In Philadelphia, Temple University Hospital fills that role. On a daily average, 500 patients are seen per day in the emergency room which amounts to almost 200,000 patients per year. In the past year, greater than $63M in free care was provided to the poorest citizens in Philadelphia, often times requiring life-saving treatment without any type of reimbursement to the hospital. In addition to the free care provided, Temple University Hospital provides approximately $93M in under-reimbursed care.

The Health System is in the best shape in many years, and this is due to the efforts of Dr. Larry Kaiser. For the first time since 2007, the Health System has realized a profit. Standard & Poor’s updated their outlook for the Health System and Moody’s and Finch have improved their outlooks as well, with Finch moving to a positive outlook. In the review, Moody’s noted out that the Health System plays an indispensable role in the City of Philadelphia.

Recently, the Health System launched an initiative called Temple Health Block-by-Block whereby researchers from the Lewis Katz School of Medicine and the Clinical Research Institute go door to door in certain zip codes to interview the community residents to conduct surveys related to the residents, their health and their communities, and to engage the residents in having a voice in community related research.

In October, the North Broad Physical Therapy Center opened. The center is a pro-bono, student-run health clinic for the residents of North Philadelphia. The clinic is supervised by a physician with students from the Lewis Katz School of Medicine and the School of Pharmacy taking part in serving the residents.

Another initiative is Project Engage which is sponsored by the Kornberg School of Dentistry. Project Engage is a multimillion dollar effort to provide free dental care to children of low-income families who reside in North Philadelphia. Children who have never seen a dentist or who are at high risk for developing tooth decay receive critical preventative dental care. The program is the brainchild of Dean Amid Ismail.

The provision of free and discounted healthcare does not mean substandard care. Temple is only number two in the city behind the University of Pennsylvania in conducting medical research citywide.

Temple is Philadelphia’s public university. The provision of $63M in free healthcare to our city’s poorest citizens is only one way the university demonstrate its commitment to this community.

At this time, Mr. O’Connor introduced Ms. Tamron Hall, who was elected as a member of the Board at the meeting in October 2015. Mr. O’Connor noted that Ms. Hall is Temple Made, having earned a degree in Broadcast Journalism in 1992. Ms. Hall is a great addition to the Board, and on behalf of all the members, Mr. O’Connor welcomed Ms. Hall.
Mr. O'Connor then stated that the Board has received information briefings about the possibility of building a facility for use by the community and the football team. Today, an article was released by the Philadelphia Business Journal where it appeared that Mayor-elect Jim Kenney may be opposed to the construction of an on-campus stadium on main campus and indicated his desire to learn more about the potential new facility. It is our intent to meet with the Mayor-elect to get his views on the merits of an on-campus stadium. Mr. O'Connor then stated that the university would engage all aspects of the community in the process, but that he and the trustees believe that the stadium is right for the university and right for the City of Philadelphia.

OLD/NEW BUSINESS

24. Guest Speakers

a.) Dean’s Report

Laura A. Siminoff, Dean, College of Public Health

Referring to Agenda Reference 24a, Dean Siminoff summarized the vision, plan, reorganization, academic accomplishments, investments, and challenges in the College of Health Professions.

b.) Faculty Senate

Professor Tricia S. Jones, School of Media and Communication

President, Faculty Senate

"Chairman O’Connor, President Theobald, and members of the Board of Trustees, we have had a number of things to celebrate as we approach the semester break and holiday season.

"I would like to thank several members of the Board – Trustee White, Trustee McKee, Trustee Cooper, Trustee Morgan, and Chairman O’Connor for attending the November 17th Faculty Service Awards Brunch. It was a wonderful event, made more so by such a showing of support from the Board.

"This semester, we have also received the final report of the Child Care Study Committee, chaired by Professors Casey Breslin and Marsha Weirraub. The report, forwarded to Director of Human Resources Sharon Boyle, is an excellent set of recommendations and reflections on how child care issues and concerns affect faculty affects faculty ability to join and/or remain at Temple.

"We have also seen the PLRB ruling on the Accreditation of Adjunct Faculty into TAUP and we appreciate that both sides are readying for negotiation – and that each side has processes and restrictions on how they engage full time faulty to discern their perspectives as they relate to adjunct issues. The Faculty Senate is planning to do what it can to facilitate sharing full time faculty thoughts during the process. While the Faculty Senate was neutral, and appropriately so, during the petition process, we have received considerable feedback from full time faculty. As we move forward, we will provide all parties with feedback we receive from the faculty and trust this information will be used to further constructive decisions.

"Thank you for your interest and support."

c.) Temple Student Government
Ryan K. Rinaldi, Class of 2016, Fox School of Business and Management
President, Temple Student Government

"Chairman O'Connor, President Theobald, and members of the Board of Trustees; I thank you very much for allowing me to report to you the State of our Student Body. After a historic first month and a half of the fall semester, it gives me great pleasure to say that the state of the students of Temple University is confident. Confident because today, more now than ever, our students know that the value of their degree is increasing both within the City of Philadelphia and across the country. On August 23rd, Temple welcomed its most academically accomplished and diverse class in University history. At Temple Student Government, we are excited to begin engaging this new class of Temple Owls in initiatives and activities to continue to enhance the student experience and to elevate Temple to a national spotlight.

"Temple Student Government has hit the ground running this semester, kick starting various initiatives across different disciplines to proactively address issues we know students are thinking about. From community relations to university pride, we have laid the groundwork for a year full of progress. On September 19th, we held our first Adopt a Block community service program where we had students dispersed throughout the off-campus community cleaning up the streets, organizing garbage collections, and even painting a beautiful mural on Bouvier Street. We will continue to build a strong relationship with members of our North Philadelphia Community and to create ways in which students can be better neighbors.

"Temple has unprecedented red hot momentum both in the classroom as national rankings soar and on the athletic fields where our sports teams are continuing to shine. If you have watched ESPN lately, you will know that our Temple Owls have the best football team in the state of Pennsylvania. There is a sense of pride driving down Broad Street and seeing the Cherry and White on the Cecil B. Moore station. To put a word on it, the campus is electric.

"Temple Student Government is continuing to work on initiatives that touch upon improving the game day experience for athletics, creating a more sustainable and environmentally friendly campus, working hand in hand with Campus Safety to ensure students security and engaging our large base of alumni, just to name a few.

"I thank you for your continued support of our university and our students, and I look forward to working with you all to provide for the best student experience at this tremendous University.

"Thank you again Mr. Chairman, Dr. Theobald and members of the Board of Trustees."

ADJOURNMENT
There being no further business on the agenda, the meeting was adjourned at 4:20p.m.
